What is a Point of Sale material (POS)?

A Point of Sale material (POS) is everything that follows the product and promotes impulse purchase decisions that are heavily influenced at the point of sale.

ABOUT US

Promoción brand is a successful part of company named Žicakond, with over 18 years of experience in promoting brands and developing market with our clients.

We established in 1998. as a small company in order to fulfill the tasks to the underdeveloped areas of the market and promote products.

Our production process contains various technologies; production of raw wire, modifying and cutting metal profiles and sheets, spot MIG, MAG and TIG welding, processing polymers to the digital press...etc.

In a highly competitive retail environment, we understand the need to differentiate your product from the crowd and attract consumer attention.

We offer single source solutions with a high level of expertise in creative development, engineering, printing and manufacturing — providing full service. Also, offering free sample/prototype to every potential client.

We are specialists in POS industry. Feel free to contact us for more information.
